

Chili Parrot Report

(Chili papagáj jelentés)

“Hi Agents. Have a look at the map at <http://g.co/maps/j64et> and fill in the gaps with the missing information. When you are finished, the colored letters will spell out another name for the chili parrot. Get to work!”

(Üdv Ügynökök! Nézzétek meg ezt a térképet: <http://g.co/maps/j64et> , és töltsétek ki az üresen hagyott részeket a hiányzó információkkal. Ha befejeztétek, a színes betűk kiadják a chili papagáj másik nevét. Lássatok munkához!)

Brazil

There are only a few chili parrots left in the world. People have killed them for their golden feathers. In Brazil, there are still some chili parrots in the area of the Amazon.

Mexico

There are some chili parrots left in the South of Mexico. They like chili peppers and this gave them their name. In Mexico, the chili parrots are happy because of the many chili peppers. If the pepper is really hot, the parrots like them more.

Costa Rica

In the summer of 2011 in Costa Rica, police arrested two men who tried to transport twenty chili parrots on a ship to Europe. The chili parrots were released into a Costa Rican National Park.

Cuba

The first chili parrot was discovered by Alexander von Humboldt in 1801. He named the parrot when he saw it was always eating chili peppers.

Mozambique

Five years ago, Mozambique was the country with the largest chili parrot population. Today, it is very difficult to see chili parrots in the wild.

South Africa

In South Africa, the chili parrots symbolize eternal youth. They are seen as sacred animals.

Papua New Guinea

Over the past ten years, chili parrots all over the world have nearly all disappeared. In Papua New Guinea, more than two hundred chili parrots have disappeared in the last six months.

Thailand

The chili parrots are famous for their feathers which contain gold. In Thailand, there was a big market for the golden chili parrot feathers until the chili parrot feather business collapsed in the year 2002.

The chili parrot is also called:

(A chili papagájt úgy is hívják, hogy:)

